A Fair Vote Insures a Republican Majority.

Importations of Roughs from New York, Washington and Baltimore.

Efforts of Authorities to Prevent Frauds.

Conflict Between Mayor and Sheriff.

The Courts Sustain the Mayor.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

PHILADELPHIA, October 12, 1868.

The outside work of the campaign in this city closed Saturday evening, and there are no meetings of any kind to-night. The leaders of both parties are engaged very quietly in perfecting their arrangements for to-morrow. If a fair vote can be had the city will give a handsome Republican majority, but the Democrats are straining every nerve to defeat the will of the legal voters by fraud.

Telegrams from New York say at least three thousand roughs left there last night and to-day, intending to vote early and often here to-morrow. Two hundred left Washington last night, got off the train three or four miles out, and walked into the city this morning about daylight. A steamer is on the way from Baltimore with a full load of "Plug Uglies," who are to reach here some time to-night. If the Democrats can succeed in polling a considerable proportion of these and other fraudulent votes, they will cut our majority down to comparatively small figures. The city authorities and Republican leaders are using all possible means to prevent these contemplated frauds.

Detectives go through every train some miles out of the city to spot repeaters and shoulder hitters. The Mayor has sworn in several hundred special policemen for duty to-morrow.

There is a great deal of anxiety and excitement everywhere, and fears are entertained that the Democratic mob finding their game of illegal voting to-morrow blocked, may bring on a riot. Serious apprehensions are entertained of a conflict of authority between the Sheriff and city authorities. The law clearly gives the Mayor control of affairs to-morrow, but the Sheriff, who is a strong partisan Democrat, sets up his claim, and has appointed two thousand deputies to attend the polls and their party friends. The Attorney General of the State on Saturday gave an opinion adverse to this claim, and said the Sheriff's action was illegal. The matter was brought before the District Court to-day on a call for an injunction against the Sheriff, and a full bench expressed the unanimous opinion that the Sheriff has not the shadow of a right to exercise the authority he asserts, and the Chief Justice gave notice that he would, if the Sheriff attempted to carry out his plans to-morrow, order his arrest, as well as arrest his deputies, and notified the Mayor to be prepared with a sufficient force to execute the warrants. These proceedings may deter the Democrats from carrying out the plans they have formed, but many persons fear there will be a disturbance, resulting possibly in bloodshed.

Whatever is the result of the day's work in this city, the State is regarded as sure enough to go Republican by a good majority, and we are pretty certain of carrying all the Congressional Districts out of Philadelphia that we now have. Telegrams from all parts of the State express great indignation at the course the Democratic leaders are pursuing here, and the Governor has notified the city authorities that he will support them in the execution of the laws.

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, October 12.—In the Court of Common Pleas to-day a decision was rendered in relation to the power of the Sheriff, in which Judges Allison, Ludlow, Pierce and Brewster concurred. The following letter to Mayor McMichael, from Judge Allison, gives the substance of the opinion: "We have just expressed our unanimous opinion adverse to the claim of the Sheriff to exercise paramount and exclusive authority in the preservation of the peace of the city. The most that he can claim is concurrent power with the Mayor. I also gave notice that I would, if applied to to-morrow, issue my warrant on proper complaint for the arrest of the Sheriff and his deputies or police officers charged with the exercise of authority claimed by the Sheriff in his proclamation, and that I would notify the Mayor to be prepared with a sufficient force to execute my warrant if required."

GOLD AND SILVER.

Among the Mountains and Mines of Colorado.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

GEORGETOWN, COL., September 25, 1868.

My last communication closed with a promise to give you an account of the silver mines of this region.

In the spring of 1864 the Georgetown Mining Company commenced operations here for gold, the surface quartz yielding that metal. This company was almost immediately followed by the Alpine Company of Providence, R. I., and the Wilson & Cass Company, of New York, all of whom were provided with liberal working capital, which, however, was soon exhausted in the purchase and transportation of useless machinery and the thousand avenues through which money at that time escaped. To make the preliminary story short, the result, as far as gold was concerned, was a failure, and although that article in considerable quantities had been taken from the surface quartz on several lodes in this district, further developements proved that it was not, in a practical sense, a gold bearing region. In September, 1864, a party of gentlemen penetrated a region some six or eight miles from this point, now known as the Argentine District, but which at that time was a terra incognita. It is so closely connected with the "Snowy Range" as to form a part of it, and had only been visited before that time by hunters, who, in following the Mountain Elk, had entered its fastnesses. On that trip they found and brought down from the mountains specimens of silver bearing ores, which when tested by competent parties proved of great value.

But little was thought at the time of the discovery, and it was looked upon generally as an invitation to revive the speculative operations which were drooping. In the following spring work was commenced on the "Belmont" Lode, which was discovered at the time I mention. Other discoveries followed, and but little time elapsed before the fact was fully established that the region was rich in silver. Miners from all parts of the Territory flocked into and around the district, and the result was that an extensive region was proved to contain silver ore as rich or richer than any known. Old discoveries that had been worked for gold without a suspicion of the presence of silver, were found to contain large quantities of it. A town of fifteen hundred to two thousand inhabitants sprang at once into existence, and the entire region which only a few months before, was almost a wilderness, resounded with the echo of the miners' blows.

The summer of 1865 was mainly occupied in prospecting, and as the result, a great number of lodes were discovered, some of which proved of extraordinary richness, the argentiferous lead ores especially, yielding almost fabulous results, assays, in many instances, reaching as high as $15,000 to $20,000 per ton.

In consequence of the disastrous results of the speculative period before mentioned, confidence in our silver region was a plant of slow growth, and notwithstanding its richness the wealth of the mines could not be made available for the reason that parties owning them had no capital to develope them.

It is a fact not generally understood, and among those not familiar with practical mining operations, a matter of much wonder that mines of such value should require the aid of capital to develope them. The explanation is simple. In order to place a mine in condition to produce ore in any considerable quantity shafts must be sunk or levels run. This cannot be done without money; not much, to be sure, but more than the miner has. Many mines pay their own development from the ores taken from them, while hundreds equally good though not so favorably situated for immediate profitable results are remaining idle for want of the means to make their great wealth available.

I am convinced that any intelligent man coming here could not fail to reach the conclusion that with judicious management no investment could be made that would meet with such profitable returns as in the silver mines of this immediate region. Elsewhere, Nevada for instance, ores that will yield from thirty to fifty dollars per ton, have been worked and are still being worked at such a profit as to place the stocks of companies considerably above par, the premium having been maintained ever since they were put in active operation. Here, with a much better location and greater natural advantages—eight hundred miles nearer the centers of capital on the Atlantic coast, such ores are not worked, not because they could not be profitably reduced with machinery adapted to the purpose, but for the reason that the entire attention of the mining community has up to this time been directed to the higher grades of ores. The first class ores of this and adjoining districts reach in value—on a working basis—of from $300 to $1,000 per ton. The Equator Lode, for instance, yields two qualities of ore, their lower quality, which is worked here, producing on an average $200 per ton, which more than pays the expenses of the mine. The best quality which is shipped to Newark, New Jersey, for reduction, yields $1,000 per ton—the whole of which is net profit, the lead in the ore paying all expenses. This mine, which has reached only a depth of one hundred feet, is, I think, the best developed lode in this district. The Terrible is a lode of the same character, and of about the same degree of richness.

Among the first discoverers of the Argentine district, to which I have referred, was the Hon. A. O. Patterson, a native of Pennsylvania, formerly President of the State Bank of Iowa, who early in the history of the territory became identified with its interests, and has ever since been one of its leading and most highly respected citizens.

Dating from this discovery an interest has sprung up that in the future will be second to none in the country, and one that will be the pride not only of the future State of Colorado, but a blessing to the nation of which she is now a ward.

This letter has grown so long that I must leave to another much that I wish to say, and with a promise to greet you again, I am, yours,

QUAKERS IN COURT.

Which is the Ohio Yearly Meeting—A Trial of Great Interest.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

STEUBENVILLE, OHIO, October 12, 1868.

The State District Court, which closed its annual sitting in this city to-day, has had before it for adjudication a case which attracts the attention of "Quakerdom" throughout the civilized world. It is not so because of the amount or value of the estate involved, but because it will be a determination so far as the question is involved, and so far as the courts can determine it, of the orthodoxy of certain portions of the Society of Friends, though the question of orthodoxy in doctrine or of departures on doctrinal points are no where before the court. The title of the case as it stands on the docket—Wm. J. Harrison et al. against Benjamin Hoyle and others—may convey to members of the Ohio yearly meeting of Friends some idea of the case and its cause, but to outsiders the title means nothing. The property in controversy consists of a tract of land containing about seventy acres, located near Mt. Pleasant in this (Jefferson) county, Ohio, having on it a school building and other appurtenances, all valued at $20,000. The property was purchased in 1837 from funds contributed by "Friends" in this country and Europe, and the title was vested in three trustees chosen by the "Ohio Society of Friends." The property, held in trust for educational uses, was controlled by a committee selected by the yearly meeting, and the school was controlled by a superintendent appointed by the committee. Such continued to be the practice from the creation of the trust up to 1854, at which time commenced the visible difficulties out of which this suit has grown. Prior to 1854, there was but one "Ohio yearly meeting." Since that time there has been two, or rather two bodies, each claiming to be the "Ohio yearly meeting," in legitimate succession, each claiming that there is but one "Ohio yearly meeting," and that they are that one. Friend Harrison in his testimony says there is but one "Ohio yearly meeting," and he of course belongs to that one, while Friend Hoyle does not. Friend Hoyle on the other hand, and with equal persistence, affirms there is but one "Ohio yearly meeting," and he is a member of that one and "Friend" Harrison is not. Primarily the cause hinges on this question. The property belongs to the "Ohio yearly meeting" of which Benjamin Hoyle and his coadjutors is in possession, and has been so since 1854, claiming to be lawfully so as the "Ohio yearly meeting." Wm. J. Harrison, and those who join with him, ask to have Hoyle and others put out of possession, and that they be decreed control of the property as being the rightful "Ohio Society," to whom the property belongs in trust. These rival claims have brought before the court the reasons why there came to be rival claimants since 1854. The statements of facts by both sides, justly spoken of by Judge Brinkerhoff, as being in singular accord, exhibiting no disagreement as to any material fact, showed that though there was no visible division prior to 1854, the leaven for it was at work and had been since 1844. Prior to that time John Wilburn had been disowned by the New England yearly meetings, for certain attacks on Joseph John Gurney, of English revival notoriety, and other pamphlets, which were claimed by the ruling power in the New England Society to be scandalous. The New England Society, it is claimed, then had from 8,000 to 10,000 members. Of these some 500 or 600, dissatisfied with the action of the meeting, in disowning Wilbur, and for other reasons, set up for themselves and claimed to be the "New England Yearly Meeting." This body and the one which affirmed the correctness of Wilbur's disownment, sent, as was customary, epistles to the other Yearly Meetings. The epistle from the original society was received and the one from the "Wilbur friends" rejected by all the other meeting, except the Ohio and Philadelphia societies, prior to 1854. The latter has never since officially recognized either, and the Ohio meeting did not until after 1854. From 1844 up to 1854 the question came up at each yearly meeting, and to avoid separation on it no action in final recognition of the claims of either was had. This Wilbur difficulty appears as the underlying cause of the final division.

For some years prior to 1854, Benjamin Hoyle had been the clerk of the Ohio yearly meeting, and he and his friends have control of the property in controversy. Hoyle and his friends were also in sympathy with Wilbur, and were of those who urged the reading at each meeting of the epistles received from the New England meeting controlled by Wilbur's friends. At each meeting during the nine years prior to 1854 attempts had been made to elect some one other than Hoyle as clerk, but at each attempt the representatives failed to agree upon a suitable person. Hoyle continued against whatever opposition there was to hold over. In 1854 the representatives met as usual, and this body seems to be peculiar to the Friends. They are chosen by the "Quarterly Meetings." Their special function appears to end when they present their reports and nominate a clerk, after which they are no more to the yearly meeting, and have no more power in it than any other member of the Yearly Meeting, and every "Friend" in the limits of the society is a member of this. When the representatives met on the second day evening (1854) there were forty-two representatives present. A proposition for a change of clerks was made. The name of Jonathan Binns was mentioned by twelve members and two others favored it. The remainder were silent. The body then adjourned. At the yearly meeting on the next (third) day, when the clerk called for the report of the representatives, one of them arose and said he was requested to announce the name of Jonathan Binns, whereupon about one-half of the members of the yearly meeting arose and said they were satisfied that Binns be clerk. No other name was announced. One of the opposing representative then arose and said the representatives had agreed upon no name. Whereupon Hoyle proclaimed this report in order, and entered such as the minute. Binns, urged by his friends, then went forward to the desk and entered in the book a minute of his election. Hoyle in his testimony said there was considerable expression of opinion for Binns, indeed more than was usual on such occasions, and no expression of opinion for himself. But he knew the sentiments of those who remained silent, and entered the minute accordingly. He did not count to know how many expressed for Binns, and how many were silent for himself. The separation dates from this. Those who sympathised with Hoyle claimed that he was the regular clerk; that Binns and his friends were seceders, and that they and those who adhered to them constituted the "Ohio Society of Friends," with right to control its funds and property. Binns and his friends set up a like claim and on a statement of the facts it is admitted they have been recognized as the lawful yearly meeting by all other yearly meetings of Friends, except that of Philadelphia. Friend Hoyle in his testimony said "there are but two yearly meetings of Friends, the Ohio (his own) and the Philadelphia. His opponents say there are ten or more, I forget the precise number, and that they have the recognition of all of them, and this is one of the points they make for the possession of the school property—that it being the property of the Ohio yearly meeting, and they being the only persons recognized as such by the great body of Friends throughout the world, that recognition should control the courts in the determination of their claim to the "Simon pures," and to have the control of the estate, which, as the legitimate meeting, belongs to them.

As it stands it is a nice quarrel, if anything can be called a quarrel which is conducted without bitterness on any side. The crowd of "Friends" in the court room when the final argument was expected betrayed the deep interest felt by them in the conclusion, which has been postponed by the action of the Judges in sending the case up to the Superior Court, without giving any decision of the Court below.

MERVINE.

Christianity in Japan.

[Correspondence of the New York Times.]

Nagasaki is the stronghold of Catholicism in Japan. In the great Simabara massacre of 1638 it is evident that Christianity was not stamped out. Though the Jesuites, Franciscans and Dominicians, by their internal dissensions and burning ambition for temporal power, brought the just wrath of a jealous and enraged Government upon their heads, they were not entirely crushed. At the present time there are supposed to be 10,000 in and near Nagasaki.

The Japanese judge Christianity by what they have seen of its evil effects during the last two centuries. In 1655 Francis Xavier and his disciples were received by the natives with open arms and allowed to desseminate their teachings far and wide, and their efforts were eminently successful. But this prosperity was short lived. First dissensions arose between the various orders of ecclesiastics, which could not but seriously injure their holy cause. But there followed a broader and deeper reason for their ultimate expulsion. Pride and avarice, and that burning thirst for power which has ever characterized the Jesuits, gradually became the dominant passions in the minds of these ambitious men. The acquisition of Governmental control became of more importance than the conversion of souls; and the pitiable spectacle was soon presented of a priesthood saturated with sensuality and debased by an ignoble desire for landed possessions and temporal power. At this pseudo-Christianity (for the Kingdom of the Savior is essentially not of this world) the Government aimed a death blow.

The edict of extermination has been reissued by the Mikado's order, and the authorities have commenced arresting the converts. Already two ship loads have been scattered through the Empire, for they hope to kill it by transplanting. When the first load went out, the various Consuls protested, supposing that the unfortunates were to be drowned outside. The Government replied very politely that, first, it could not possibly do anything wrong, and, secondly, that it thanked the foreign Powers for their very kind interest in the matter, but that the Japanese were perfectly able to take care of themselves.

The Christians have not been destroyed, but banished. A second ship load went out of the harbor at midnight a short time since. The lamentations of the exiles and the responses of their friends and relatives on shore, from whom they were torn, were most touching, and echoed plaintively through the stillness of the night. It is trying to see this going on under one's very eyes and not be able to prevent it; but foreign vessels cannot interfere. A captain of a Portuguese man-of-war in the harbor swore by high and low that he would cast loose his battery and open on the town; but he did not. Meantime great excitement prevails on both sides. The educated priests at Kioto, who handle vigorous pens in the service of the Government, have attacked the new religion in a small pamphlet recently translated. On the other hand, the Roman Catholic Bishop has gone to Yokohama, to lay the matter before the French Minister. In the eyes of the Japanese, Christianity is a political principle; and they are scarcely to be blamed for considering it such; but until they can be convinced that it is not, they will fight it to the bitter end.

WE learn from the Cincinnati Commercial that, after four weeks spent in negotiations, the Merchants' Union and the American Express Companies were consolidated on Saturday last. The new company is to draw the same percentage from the general revenue that both do now. The object of the consolidation is to reduce competition and economise in management. It is claimed that this arrangement will bring dividends to the stockholders—something they have not seen for the past two years.

L'Armee Illustree, of Paris, in its edition of September 26th, gives a portrait of Mr. Anson Burlingame, with extracts from several English papers, and adds the following paragraph: "However the case may be, it is certain the Chinese Embassy will be excellently received in France, not only by the people generally, but also in official circles, which fact will tend to influence the tenor of the treaty that Mr. Burlingame intends proposing to the Imperial Government.

SOUTHERN SPIRIT.

Opinions of the Rebel Press.

A leading Democratic paper in Georgia says of General Frank Blair's speech in Indianapolis: "We regard this speech as the most masterly effort of the canvass; we regard it likewise as in strict conformity with the principles enunciated in the Brodhead letter. It goes even further. It shows that not only ought the reconstruction acts to be set aside by reason of their violation of the Federal Charter, but mainly because they are the instrumentalities by which tyranny builds its permanent power on the corruption of a free populace. * * * * Frank Blair comes forward like a demigod to appease the squabbles of little men over little issues. He comes forward to lead the campaign back to its proper channel. He comes forward to plead for the people against the machinations of despotism. He comes forward to save them from corruption and the Gold Power. He comes forward as the champion of the white race and its purity. He comes forward as the true knight of American womanhood, and goes forth to battle with the radical dragon which seeks to put manacles upon the free men of the land by depreciating and poisoning the excellence of female association."

General Blair struck the true issue of the campaign in his Brodhead letter, says the Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist, and although some foolish Democrats have sought to apologize for or explain its direct utterance, they would have exhibited far more wisdom had they pushed his idea aggressively on every stump in the East and West. The Constitutionalist explains: "Had the South kept quiet and worked in secret, and the North roused herself with the misplaced fervor and vigor of the South, Frank Blair's letter would have been no stumbling block in the way of Democratic success. But precipitate Southerners compelled the sluggish Northern Democracy to qualify their predetermined policy of aggression and assume a curious attitude of defense. Would to God they had been more alert, or we more patient."

The New Orleans Times complains bitterly of the manner in which registration is being conducted in Louisiana. It says that the people who pay the taxes must be allowed a voice in the selection of their rulers, or chaos will certainly come again. The present Chairman of Registration must be dismissed and a fair registration and election had, or the people will be obliged to take the matter into their own hands, refuse to recognize the plundering adventurers who now usurp authority over them, and, falling back on their inalienable rights, hold a fair, though informal election, and then appeal to their country and the world for a ratification of their acts.

The Macon (Ga.) Journal and Messenger refuses to indorse Gen. John B. Gordon's pledge that, should any party, North or South attempt to set aside the result of the November election, even though General Grant were chosen, he would offer his sword in behalf of the President elect. It says that General Gordon could carry in a "dugout" all the ex-Confederates who would follow him across the Ohio or Potomac for "this new and for them most unnatural war;" and it adds: "The South, of course, has no idea of resisting General Grant's inauguration, but if the North or the West should kick out of the traces, we do not see what business it is of ours."

The Selma (Ala.) Times and Messenger says that if General Grant is elected President the Southern ex-rebels will have done their duty in opposing his election, and unless driven to madness by the measures of his administration will render as prompt obedience to his rule as they have hitherto rendered to the enactments of Congress, and as they are now rendering to the authorities imposed upon them by that body. How prompt they have been, and how obedient they are, it does not explain.

The Richmond Dispatch despairingly characterizes the day of the Presidential election as a day of evil, ever to be dreaded from the bitter and violent conflicts incident upon it. Whoever is elected, it says, there will be a joy and a relief when the election is over, for then there will be comparative relief from the disgust, irritation, and distrust which it causes.

The Atlanta Constitution urges the Legislature of Georgia to remain in session until after the election in November, in view of the present peculiar political crisis. It says that the State is in the midst of events which require the utmost vigilance to guard against evil influences; and he who is unfaithful to his trust at such a time the country will not excuse.

Adah Isaac Menken.

A London letter gives the following letter written by an English writer of family and position, who was much attached to Adah Isaacs Menken, concerning her death, which occurred in Paris. It is not without interest to many readers:

"The darling often spoke of you and Mrs. —— as her most attached and best friends. In her last moments she thought a great deal of you both, and desired me to write and tell you so. The cause of her death was peritonitis, which originated, I believe, from mechanical injury received in playing "Mazeppa." All through her illness, up to the day preceding her death, she suffered a great deal; then all bodily and mental pain seemed to have forsaken her, and she glided away from my arms as if sinking into the most happy, peaceful sleep, with a heavenly smile on her sweet lips. It has been my fate to see many death-beds, but none so beautiful as this. She knew perfectly well she was going, and did not express the slightest regret for quitting this unfortunate world, where she had so many heart-breaking troubles to encounter. It was her desire that no one should grieve for her, as the separation would only be short, and the next meeting an eternal joy. We must all try to comply with this wish of hers, although it is very, very hard to do so."

* * *

THOSE who knew the late Dean Richmond, the rough-hewn but strong minded leader of the Democratic party in New York, know that the following is probably true to the letter. It refers to the New York riot. Said Richmond to Seymour: "Governor Seymour, I have now made up my mind that you are a d—d weak-kneed cuss. Why don't you stop this riot?" "Well," says Seymour, "what can I do?" "Do, why, d—n it, put a stop to it—that's what you can do."

* * *

A LAWRENCE dispatch to the Chicago Tribune states that a remarkable petrifaction was recently discovered at Sheridan, at the end of the Kansas Pacific Railroad. It seems to have been the remains of a crocodile, and measures 126 feet in length from the head to the end of the tail. Of the jaw only the upper one was found, which measured seven feet to the first joint of the spinal column, and actually weighed seventy-five pounds. The tail measured sixteen feet in length. The first bone measured four and a half inches in diameter, and the last three-fourths of an inch.

THE HON. A. K. McClure, of Philadelphia, was invited to address the great Cleveland meeting on the 8th inst. In his letter of declension he says: "Do not fear Pennsylvania, nor Philadelphia. Both will show by their votes on the second Tuesday of October that our people are true to Liberty and Law, and that our battle fields were not made memorable in vain. The State will give not less than 20,000 for the Republican ticket in October, elect Republican Congressmen in all the districts now represented by Republicans, return a Republican Legislature to elect a Republican United States Senator in place of Buckalew, and give Grant not less than 40,000 in November."

The Pacific Railroad Approaching Completion.

The rails have been laid across the two great mountain ranges of the continent—the Rocky Mountains and the Sierra Nevadas—and are being rapidly pushed onward along the intervening valleys. Many persons imagined, when the Pacific Railroad was projected, that it would halt at the mountain barriers. The result has been that the Corporations entrusted with its construction have redoubled their energies as the work went on. Twelve hundred miles of the route between Omaha and Sacramento are made by the locomotive, and the gap of about five hundred miles between the Eastern and Western portions will be further reduced by 250 miles before January. Verily, this is marvelous progress, and the Overland Railroad is no longer a thing of hope and conjecture—it is almost an assured success. The Central Pacific Railroad Company, who have in hand the Pacific half of the line, have built more than 200 miles since the first of July last, and have 100 miles graded in advance of their track. The growing confidence of the community in this Road is shown by the demand for the First Mortgage Gold Bonds issued thereupon, which were two years ago offered at 95, are now selling at 103 and interest, in currency, and may go higher shortly. There is, we are informed, a probability that the remainder of the Loan will be disposed of within a short time. Capitalists and others interested in such matters can learn the particulars and foundation of the Bonds by reference to the advertisement of the Financial Agents, Messrs. FISK & HATCH, of New York City, elsewhere in this issue.

Mount Sinai.

Dean Stanley, years ago, pointed out the uncertainty prevalent as to the position of Mount Sinai and the course taken by the Israelites in their journey after crossing the Red Sea. To the present that uncertainty has not been removed, but some English gentlemen have subscribed a sum—though by no means sufficient—to provide an accurate survey of the Sinaitic Peninsula. Sir Roderick Murchison, Sir John Herschel and Colonel Sir Henry James are entrusted with the superintendence of the fund, and with the consent of the British Government an expedition has been organized under the Director-General of the Ordnance Survey. It will consist of two officers of the Royal Engineers, of great experience in home and foreign surveys, aided by four non-commissioned officers and sappers, including a photographer and a gentleman acquainted with Arabic, whose duty it will be to collect local traditions and names. Jebel Musa and Jebel Serbal have been considered by the authorities as possessing the clearest claims to the honor of having been the scene of the traditions of the Mosaic tables. These will be surveyed on a scale of six inches to a mile. The portion of the peninsula including the several routes of these hills from the Gulf of Suez will be mapped on a scale of one inch to the mile. The rock inscriptions on the peninsula, supposed to be the work of the Children of Israel, will, of course, be carefully examined, and observations of a mineralogical, archæological and meteorological character are also to be made. Much interest is attached to the work, and we trust the committee will have little difficulty in raising sufficient funds to carry on the survey as fully as is proposed.

Gas Lime as a Manure.

A late number of the American Gas Light Journal contained a report of one of the Agricultural Societies of England, at which the subject for discussion was the benefits to be derived from the use of gas lime. From the report, as given in that journal, the following conclusions appear to be fairly established:

1. A dressing of from three to four tons of gas lime per acre, if applied in the winter, or before the spring rains, proves a powerful stimulant for grass, increasing the crop of hay for that season and the next, and it imparts great vigor to the grass on old pastures, and the cattle show no signs of dislike on account of the gas lime.
2. If gas lime be applied at the rate of eight tons per acre, it will destroy all vegetation for three years.
3. A piece of ground thoroughly infested with weeds that are hard to be extirpated, may in certain cases, where the cost of hauling is not too great, be more economically cleansed by a heavy coating of gas lime than by any other method.

Gas lime may be obtained at the gas factories free, or for the cost of packing if it is to be shipped. It soon loses most of its caustic properties on exposure to the air. By sufficient exposure to the air, and composting, it is undoubtedly useful as a manure, and may be useful sometimes in subduing foul land as suggested.

Leached Wood Ashes.

An English farmer gives the following in regard to the value of soap ashes:

"My opinion of soaper's ashes is confined to the application of it as a top dressing on pasture land. About twelve years ago I agreed with a soap boiler for 1,500 tons of soaper's ashes. I used to apply about twenty wagon loads per acre, and a single leaching would let the whole in. I was laughed at and abused for my folly, the wise-acres alleging that my land would be burned up for years and totally ruined; all of which I disregarded, and applied my soaper's ashes every day in the year, reeking from the vat, without any mixture whatever.

"I tried six acres mixed up with earth; but I found it only doing things by halves. My land never burned, but from the time of the application became a dark green color, bordering upon black, and has given me more, but never less, than two tons per acre ever since."

A CRUSTY old rebel, standing in front of the Planters' House, St. Louis, the other night, as a procession passed, was asked by a stranger, "Who are those?" He replied, "Radical rascals; one good company would whip the whole lot!" The stranger calmly answered, "You are mistaken. Those boys have been with Sherman. I know the step. I am a stranger here, and I don't know the men, but I have seen that swing before."

GOLD BONDS
OF THE
Central Pacific
RAILROAD COMPANY.

A limited quantity of the THIRTY YEAR SIX PER CENT. FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS of the Central Pacific Railroad Company are offered to investors, for the present, at 103 and Accrued Interest, in Currency.

These Bonds are secured by a Trust Deed upon the most important link of the great Inter-Oceanic Railroad, two-thirds of which is already built, at a cost of nearly

ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS,

And which enjoys already a self-sustaining way traffic. The whole line of continuous rail between

New York and San Francisco

Will be completed by July next, when an immense through business will undoubtedly follow. More than 1,200 MILES of the distance between the Missouri River and the Pacific Ocean are already traversed by the locomotive; and it is probable that 300 miles additional will be completed during the current year. The future of this Line, therefore, is unusually promising. The Central Pacific Railroad Co.

Receive from the United States Government about ten millions of acres of the

PUBLIC LANDS,

Situated along the line of their Road; also a Subsidy Loan of U. S. SIX PER CENT. BONDS, averaging $35,000 per mile, as fast as the sections of twenty miles are completed. They have received in addition, important GRANTS from the State and cities of California, worth more than $3,000,000 IN GOLD. The proceeds of these Lands, Bonds, Capital Stock, Subscriptions, Subventions and Net Earnings, are invested in the enterprise, to which is added the amount realized from First Mortgage Bonds. THESE LATTER HAVE THE FIRST LIEN UPON THE WHOLE PROPERTY, and are issued to the same amount only as the Government advances, or to the extent of about one-third the cost value of the Road, equipment, etc.

The Cash Resources are abundant for the completion of the work, and the NET EARNINGS, FROM THE WAY TRAFFIC UPON 350 MILES NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS, ARE MORE THAN DOUBLE THE CURRENT INTEREST LIABILITIES.

☞ Besides a mileage upon all through business, this Road, having the best lands for settlement, the most productive mines, the nearest markets, and being exempt from competition, will always command LARGE REVENUES, WHICH ARE WHOLLY IN COIN.

Two-thirds of the entire Loan is already marketed, and judging by past experience, the Loan will soon be closed. Investors who desire an unusually safe, reliable and profitable security, would do well to purchase before the Bonds are all taken.

☞ The Company reserve the right to advance the price at any time; but all orders actually in transitu at the time of any such advance will be filled at present price. At this time they pay more than eight per cent. upon the investment, and have, from National and State laws, guarantees superior to any other corporate securities now offered.

The First Mortgage Bonds are of $1,000 each, with semi-annual Gold coupons attached, payable in July and January. Both

Interest and Principal are Made Expressly Payable in United States GOLD COIN.

The back interest from July 1st is charged only at the currency rates.

We receive all classes of Government Bonds, at their full market rates, in exchange for the Central Pacific Railroad Bonds, thus enabling the holders to realize from 5 TO 10 PER CENT. PROFIT and keep the principal of their investments equally secure, and receive the same rate of interest for a longer period.

Orders and Inquiries will receive prompt attention. Information, Descriptive Pamphlets, etc., giving a full account of the Organization, Progress, Business and Prospects of the Enterprise furnished on application. Bonds sent by return Express at our cost.

MONONGAHELA MARKS—Two feet three. ALLEGHENY—Three feet four; falling.

We are indebted to the officers of the steamer Ida Rees No. 2 for attentions to this office.

To-day being election day business on the landing will be neglected.

The Pittsburgh, Brownsville and Geneva Packet Company offer for sale two of their fine sidewheel steamers; also, two wharfboats. Here is a fine chance for parties that want a good steamboat or a first-class wharfboat.

The punctual passenger packet Julia No. 2, Captain [illegible], takes her departure this day, at 12 M. positively. Being election day, the Captain is desirous of getting away earlier than usual. Passengers and shippers will bear this in mind.

The Monongahela continues to fall slowly, with two feet three inches by the metal marks. The Allegheny marks indicate three feet four inches. [illegible]

An Autograph Letter from George D. Prentice, Esq., Editor of the "Louisville Journal."

LOUISVILLE, November 3, 1866.

DR. LIGHTHILL—Dear Sir: I am very sorry to learn that you contemplate leaving Louisville at the end of the present week. I earnestly wish that your engagements elsewhere might permit you to remain here for a longer time.

Your sojourn among us, Dr. Lighthill, will be long remembered by our people. It has been a blessing to many. You have treated me and a female member of my family with great success. You seem to me to understand, as by intuition, the character of a malady and its best remedy. You have a multitude of patients in this city, and I have not seen or heard of one to whom you held out the promise of relief without rendering it. Your entire practice among us has been a brilliant success, and I cheerfully recommend you to my friends and the public at large as a physician deserving the utmost confidence.

Hoping that you may live long to be a blessing to additional thousands of the afflicted, I am, very truly, yours,

GEORGE D. PRENTICE.

Testimonial from the Rev. John Nott, D. D., Professor of Union College, Schenectady.

SCHENECTADY, January 17th, 1866.

DR. LIGHTHILL—Sir: Having been cured by you of a discharge in an ear, which has been very offensive of late, and, as far back as I can remember, always more or less so, and having been entirely restored to hearing since under your care, I feel that I can not withhold this acknowledgment from any use it may be to others, especially as I have applied in vain to my family physician and other physicians of reputation.

Yours truly,
JOHN NOTT.

Letter from C. C. Waite, Esq., Proprietor of the Sherman House, Chicago.

CHICAGO, November 8th, 1866.

DR. LIGHTHILL—Dear Sir: I wish to express to you the appreciation of your skill as a practitioner, particularly in the relief afforded many afflicted with Catarrh; I, myself, having received permanent benefit from your treatment. Congratulating the afflicted in the West of an opportunity to avail themselves of your invaluable services, and wishing you much success, I am, yours very truly,

C. C. WAITE.

Letter From Captain Silas F. Miller, Proprietor of the Burnett House, Cincinnati.

BURNETT HOUSE, February 9th, 1866.

TO MY FRIENDS AND THE PUBLIC:

It affords me great satisfaction to be able to testify to the success of Dr. Lighthill in the treatment of deafness, and express my sense of obligation to him.

My hearing has been impaired for a number of years, at times to such an extent as to embarrass me seriously. Dr. Lighthill, under whose care I placed myself, has removed the difficulty completely, and restore me to perfect hearing.
